OLD HOME WEEK CELEBRATION IS ASSURED

Executive Committee Appointed to Make Arrangements at Citizens' Meeting—Everybody in Favor of Plan—Boston Sons and Daughters to Come Home.

Portsmouth is to have an Old Home a large and representative gathering Week Celebration, and properly well of the citizens of the city and there come the return of the sons and was not a word heard in opposition daughters. This much was officially to the Old Home Week celebration, decided on at a citizens' meeting held but, on the other hand, everybody was at City hall on Friday evening. It was enthusiastic over the matter and con-

ident that it could be properly done. The general sentiment was that the fact that the Old Home Week celebration was to be held had been advertised and the city could not afford to throw it up.

Several speakers were heard, among them Col. T. E. O. Marvin, who was mayor of the city in 1873, and he delivered a very interesting talk in favor of the project.

The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock and there were present a good sized crowd, that occupied all of the seats in the council chamber and overflowed into the hall and auditor's room. Mayor E. H. Adams called the meeting to order and stated that it had been called at the request of a number of prominent citizens to talk over and consider the matter of holding an Old Home Week celebration. Already, he said, the city had appropriated the sum of $1000, but other than this the council considered that they could go no farther officially, and that if the celebration was to be held that it must be carried out by the citizens.

The meeting then organized with the choice of Mayor Adams as chairman, and F. E. Drew secretary.

Mr. H. P. Montgomery started the discussion by inquiring if the date had been definitely settled; that the dates mentioned, July 3, 4, 5, were not satisfactory to the merchants, ow-

Less than two months ago the Herald correspondent saw Mark Twain in Bermuda in regular attendance upon all social festivities and taking daily drives about the island, little appearing as if his stay on earth were soon to be cut short. Mark was frequently seen about town during the summer of 1903 with his bosom friend, William Dean Howells. That summer the humorist passed in a cottage at Sewall's bridge, York.

Friday evening was ladies' night at the Kittery Yacht club, but there were only three tables on account of the bad weather, so no prizes were awarded.

Mrs. Albert J. Mason

At her home on Central street early this morning occurred the death of Mrs. Abbie L. Mason, widow of Albert J. Mason, after an illness which kept her confined to the house for many years. Mrs. Mason was one of Kittery's best known ladies, a woman who was loved and admired by all who knew her. She was a member of York Rebekah Lodge. Her age was eighty-six years, one month and thirteen days.

Notice to York Rebekah Lodge

Funeral services of Mrs. Abbie Mason will be held at her late residence on Central street at one o'clock on Monday afternoon. Members of York Rebekah Lodge are requested to meet at the hall at 12.30 to attend the funeral in a body.

DEATH OF JOHN E. WIGGIN

He Was Found Dead in His Room with the Gas Turned on

Mr. John E. Wiggin, whose barn was burned in Newington on Wednesday, and whose house was discovered to be on fire at the same time, was found dead this morning at the home of his brother, Orlando R. Wiggin, in Dover. The gas was turned on and he had died from suffocation. It is supposed that he turned on the gas himself as a way to end his troubles.

Previous to the fire and since that time he had acted queerly and it is said by those who knew him that he was not in his right mind. He is said after the fire to have remarked wildly that he supposed he "would be hung for it."

Since the fire the insurance people and the authorities had been investigating the circumstances, which had contributed to his uneasiness.

Mr. Wiggin was a native of Somersworth, about fifty-five years old. He came here about twelve years ago to work as a blacksmith at the navy yard, and also worked for a time at the navy yard. He was of a quiet, retiring, inoffensive disposition, and made few acquaintances.

He had retired from the navy yard, and for the last two years had devoted all his attention to the Daniel Paul farm in Newington, which he had bought and had greatly improved.

Since the death of his wife he had been acting queerly.

His sad end is greatly regretted in the neighborhood and by all those who knew the man.

Primrose's Minstrels

Mr. George Primrose, and his mammoth minstrel organization, will be seen at Music Hall Monday evening, April 25.

The big company contains many well known comedians, singers and dancers, and is said to be scenically equipped better than ever before.

Eight big acts of great merit will be seen, following the first part, including Gov. Bowen with a rattling budget of new stories and songs, Harvey, Henderson and Lewis, with their original comedy musical act, which is filled with melodious flutes and fun; George H. Primrose in his new dancing conception, "Dancers Past and Present," wherein will be shown bits ers, and three other novel features. The performance concludes with a charming one-act Southern spectacle in four scenes, the first a wharf at New Orleans with the merry darkies loading the good ship Robert E. Lee, which is due to sail that evening filled with lasses and cotton for the north and incidentally carrying away two youthful darkies, who are making their first trip across the Mason and Dixon line; the next shows the Robert E. Lee in the distance on her way up the Mississippi.

The third finds the old darkies and mamies and their return from the cotton field, and their return to their old plantation home, saddened, but wiser after their two months' stay in

A special added attraction for the engagements of the large New England cities is George Wilson of the famous Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West. This is the first time that Primrose and Wilson have appeared together in nearly twenty years. Those two great artists need no introduction to theatre goers from ocean to ocean and from the great lakes to the gulf of Mexico.

Now won't it look good to you to see George Wilson on one "End" and George Primrose on the other? It should pack the theatre from "pit to dome."

At Music Hall on Tuesday

One of the special features introduced this season in Stetson's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which will be presented at Music Hall on Tuesday, April 25, is a thrilling realistic chase after fugitive slaves with the aid of a specially trained pack of ferocious man-eating blood hounds.

The dogs were purchased from Sheriff Carleton of Kosciusko, Miss., by whom they were used for the last three years in the trailing of evildoers not only in his own county, but in much outside territory as well.

If you would witness a genuine manhunt, don't fail to attend the Stetson performance.

You Will Want to See "Havana"

The Shuberts production of "Havana," the great London and New York musical comedy success with a thoroughly American cast, comes to Music Hall next Friday, April 23.

"Havana" comes direct from its triumphal engagement at the Casino theatre, New York city, where it has just completed a run of over two seasons.

James T. Powers, the popular comedian, is the star of "Havana." He enacts the part of a matrimonial outlaw, the Boss of the Wasp, with which character, it is needless to say, he injects a fresh and bountiful supply of genuine American humor in the play.

"Havana" should prove a welcome attraction since it is credited with being an exquisite gem of dainty music and picturesque grace.

The story of the play deals principally with Nix, the Boss, and his matrimonial adventure. The first act is laid by the harbor side in Havana, Cuba. It finds Nix among the crew of the Wasp and he has returned to Cuba after a seven years' absence. On his former visit he married a Cuban belle and deserted her and he is a dire fear of meeting his wife, the only clue he has to her being a swivel of hair. His movements cause him to be mistaken for a member of a filibustering expedition. He is forced to become one of the conspirators and does not know what it all means until he is captured by the police and sentenced to be shot. He is, however, finally recognized by his wife, and she, of course, saves him from death. The are reunited and all ends happily.

It is said that not since "Florodora" was produced in New York city has that town seen a more fanciful and beautiful play than "Havana." Leslie Stuart, who wrote the music for the former, is said to have surpassed a previous effort in "Havana," especially in the celebrated "Hello People" number which is the most discussed song of the year. Another important number sung by Mr. Powers is called "How Did the Bird Know That?" and the comedian gives it in imitative fashion. There are in all some score of musical numbers in the play.

James T. Powers himself adapts the book from the English version which is the best evidence that "Havana" is an amusing musical comedy. With the comedian comes the original cast in its entirety down to the thickest and chirpiest little "Hello People" girls.

Among the principals besides Mr. Powers are Edith Decker, Ernest Lambert, Ervay Ames, Harold Vizard, Suzanne Wilks, Charles Prince, Joseph Phillips, Will Phillips, J. Donald Archer, Ernest Hare, Geraldine Malone, Julia Mills, Ernie Clark and Mona Sartoris.

There is a large and efficient chorus effectively trained under that master in the art, Ned Wayburn. "Havana" promises to afford some genuine entertainment.

There is a good sized gang of men at work at the hotel Wentworth, getting that big place in condition for the summer business.

FROM EXETER

Coast Artillerymen's Grand Ball

Officers Elected in Two of the Churches

The Wedding of Mr. Rowe and Miss Tucker

Exeter, April 23.—The third company, Coast artillery, is four years old Friday night, and the occasion was observed by appropriate anniversary exercises and a masquerade of a sheet and pillow case party at the town hall. It was a most enjoyable affair, and the masks were features of the occasion. A prize drill of "rookies" was held, and a long list of dances was carried out, the music being furnished by the Xonian orchestra. The committee of arrangements consisted of Lieutenant Robinson, Sergeant LaFrambois, Corporal Noonan, Cook Peters and Privates Sawyer and Jenkins. The hall was attractively decorated, and military insignia were displayed at all parts of the building. The company was organized April 22, 1906 and for three years it was company I, N. H. N. G., it being transferred to the Third company, Coast artillery, a year ago. During its existence it has steadily crept up in military standing, and today is one of the best drilled in the state.

One of Exeter's citizens to pass the four score mark and come near to the four score and ten, is William Langley of Union street. He observed his 57th birthday on Friday by an appropriate and pleasant gathering by a number of friends at his residence. He was remembered with several gifts. Mr. Langley has been a resident here for seven years, coming here from Skowhegan, Me., although he had previously resided in this town. He was born in Pembroke and has followed various vocations and also resided in many places. He claims to have been a legal voter in five states, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Maine, Ohio and New Jersey. He enlisted in the Mexican war, but after spending a few weeks at Governor's island, was discharged on account of having white swelling in one of his legs. Mr. Langley was married fifty-seven years ago to Eliza McCallis, and they have three children now living, having lost three. Those living are Mrs. James Sunburn, with whom they now reside, Mrs. Cyrus Morse, also of Exeter, and William H. Langley of Waterville, Me. Avar from a few infirmities he still retains good health.

The funeral services of Michael Moran were held on Friday at St. Michael's church, and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Finen. The burial was in Portsmouth, the cortege making its way to that city over the highway.

The Exeter club, the newly organized social society, is making arrangements for another ladies' night to be held in the near future. The first one held a short time previously was a grand success. The chairman of the committee is Dr. S. H. Day.

President Flavel S. Luther of Trinity college, who was to speak at the Christian fraternity at the academy Sunday evening, has been compelled to cancel his engagement owing to an attack of the measles, and in his place will be Rev. W. W. Gillis of St. Thomas church of Dover.

The following officers of the Unitarian church have been chosen: Albin Burbank, moderator; Harry E. Walker, clerk; William A. Francis, Arthur H. Sawyer and Albin Burbank, executive committee; James A. Tufts, treasurer; and Arthur H. Sawyer, unity hall treasurer.

The following officers of the Methodist church have been chosen: Treasurer, C. Everett Colcord; clerk, Fred L. Staples; pew agent, Silas Munwaring; finance committee, Elijah Smart, chairman, Fred L. Staples and George E. Higgins.

In Haverhill, Mass., recently the engagement was announced of Miss Mary S. Bartlett, several years a teacher in the collegiate department in the early days of the Seminary, and Mr. Frank E. Nichols, of Houston, Tex. Miss Bartlett is at present a member of the Haverhill high school faculty.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Exeter school district to act on the report of the committee appointed to recommend as to the advisability of a new high school building will be held at the town hall Monday evening,

April 25, at 7.30 o'clock. The committee has already agreed that the erection of a new building is necessary and that the cost of such a building completed and ready for occupancy should not exceed $25,000. The committee has not as yet decided on a site but will no doubt be able to recommend one satisfactory to the district on Monday evening.

Sagamore lodge and Fraternity lodge, I. O. O. F., will quietly observe the 91st anniversary of Odd Fellowship at the hall next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. A pleasing programme has been arranged and all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs with their families are cordially invited. Light refreshments will be served.

Rev. J. H. Little, pastor of the Universalist church at Bethel, Me., has this week been the guest of his sister in law, Mrs. S. J. Perley. He is chaplain of the Maine state grange and a member of the Pythian lodge at Brunswick, Me., much enjoying visits to the local grange and lodge. Mrs. Little accompanied him to Exeter.

The marriage of Miss Lena May Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson M. Tucker and Mr. Harry H. Rowe occurred on Friday at the Baptist parsonage.

If it doesn't rain this afternoon Exeter will play the strong Colby team of Waterville, Me. Coach Walsh is not sure of his line-up and as he was out of town Friday there could be no line on the likely man. It is probable that Donovan will catch, Way of Littlefield, pitch; and the infield will be Frye, Fox, Captain Wingate and Hennessy, while Walsh, Vaughn, Tidgewell and Curtis will fill the outfield.

Mr. Ralph B. Woodsum and family have closed a long visit at Mr. Augustus Young's.

The Exeter high school baseball nine tackles the Rochester high this afternoon on the old academy campus, and it is expected to be a close contest, yet there is much confidence among the boys that they will win. The victory over the Sanborn seminary nine at Kingston has done much to put the right spirit into the players, and the Rochester boys will have their hands full tomorrow afternoon. It is probable that the lineup will be the same as the Sanborn game, yet Sheely may go into the box in the place of Houston. Some hard practice has been in order, and the men are all in condition. The lineup will be, Welsh, c; Sheely or Houston, p; Roodie, 1b; Robinson, 2b; Gilman, 3b; Welsh, ss; Folsom, rf; Taylor, cf; and Grunwald, lf.

TO KILL ALL FOREIGNERS

Hankow, China, April 22.—The situation in Hunan province is reported as critical. Women and children are fleeing for their lives from Changsha, the capital.

A number of villages near that city have been reduced to ashes by native mobs. The country is placarded with threats to kill all foreigners.

This disquieting news was brought by missionary refugees who arrived here from Changsha and neighboring missionary stations, at 10 a. m. to-day. Many of them had travelled 30 miles on foot and reached the Yangtze river in rags. Their houses had been burned and they lost all of their personal effects.

The missionaries stated that gunboats in the river have their guns trained upon Changsha and its suburbs and have afforded a refuge for many foreigners. Three thousand Chinese imperial soldiers are occupying the strategic points of the capital and detachments are being hurried to the outlying districts, where rioting is reported.

Many Chinese have been killed. In one instance a technical school was set afire and 30 students were burned to death.

When vessels approached Changsha to rescue the imperiled ones, the Chinese mob saturated junks with kerosene oil from the looted stations of the Standard oil company, and setting them afire, allowed them to float down stream in an attempt to fire the oncoming steamships.

The victory of Hunan province and the governor of Changsha assert that they have the situation in hand and that order is practically restored, but the missionaries say that they fear further outrages.

The telegraph wires to the westward of the disturbed districts have been cut out. Many missionaries, American, French and Norwegian, remain at outlying points.

The British consul at Changsha, who arrived here, said today: "If one foreigner had been killed a massacre probably would have followed. The British consulate was burned because I employed laborers from another province in construction of new buildings."

The monetary loss to foreign interests is believed not to have been great. The Standard oil company has lost a few thousand cans of oil.

VASSAR GIRLS MAD

Object to "Vassar" Candies Being Advertised as "Always Fresh"

Kansas City, April 22.—Vassar college is making a fight worthy of Minerva, "ready armed," against calling her students and graduates "always fresh."

Eugene F. Ware of this city, attorney for the college has filed a petition with the clerk of the United States circuit court and asked that an injunction be granted restraining a certain confectionery manufacturer of Kansas City, from labeling their chocolates, "Vassar Chocolates."

The college authorities carefully selected Mr. Ware as their lawyer. Besides admiring beauty and wisdom and purity, Mr. Ware writes over the nom de plume "Ironquill" and is such a joyous optimist that he put forth poetry even during the period he was the United States pension commissioner.

So Mr. Ware's petition is a gem. He recites that the colleges' particular objection is to the picture of a supposed college girl, which forms the centrepiece on "Vassar Chocolate" boxes.

The picture is a young woman in scholastic garb, wearing a "morit board." The college complains that this tends to provoke discussion and reproach, because many believe that if such a girl is worn, it should be worn only by men. Mr. Ware acknowledges that this argument is open to discussion by suffragettes.

Besides, Vassar's official corporate seal is imitated in the advertisement on the candy boxes. On the face of the seal is represented a woman with a book and a sprig of myrtle. In the background on a hill, is a Greek temple. Over all are the words: "Vassar Chocolates," substituted for Vassar College. Under the female figure, where, on the official seal, "Purity and Wisdom," should be, the defendants have placed the words, "Always Fresh." Says the complaint.

The words "Always Fresh" seem on the fictitious seal, to be applicable to the female figure above it, and is a matter of ridicule and reproach.

Mr. Ware appears to think a Vassar girl may be "fresh" when she is in college, but "always fresh" is a little far.

Mr. Ware complains that Vassar, established with money which its estimable founder made in beer, has taken exalted rank and obtained a wide reputation; the name "Vassar" is worth a million dollars because it represents high and thorough education, which is likely to be injured by use of the name on a candy box.

It is expected that the chocolate makers' defense will be that "always fresh" is intended as a delicate compliment to the Vassar girl only another way of saying:

"Age cannot wither her nor custom stale her infinite variety."

EPIDEMIC OF ELOPEMENTS

Haverhill Couples Coming Frequently to New Hampshire

Haverhill, April 22.—Four Haverhill young people, all under 21 years of age, eloped during the past month and were married in Newton, N. H., just over the state line.

One couple has received the parental blessing, but the other couple is still awaiting the welcome. Miss Jennie Donnelly, 18, married Ernest Welch of the same age and Miss Theresa Casey, 17, married Ernest Garon, 19. The Donnelly girl and Welch had been keeping company for six months, and they finally decided to get married.

She told him that as she was a state ward she would not be allowed to marry in Massachusetts, so she went to Newton, N. H., March 17, and securing a license from Town Clerk Battles were married by Justice of the Peace Merrill. When the couple returned to this city they feared to make their marriage-known to their relatives.

They told Miss Casey, however, and as she kept company with Ernest Garon of Broadway she confided her secret to Ernest, and he was so struck by its romance that he suggested that he and Theresa make the trip to Newton. This they did on March 23 and were wed by Justice Merrill.

When Mr. and Mrs. Garon returned home they sought the other couple and tried to decide on some plan to keep the marriage a secret. Mrs. Garon, nee Miss Casey, was the first to divulge the secret, telling the story of her marriage to her shopmates. Then she told of Mrs. Welch's romance and the story was circulated until her parents heard of it.

Garon was a frequent visitor at the Casey home, and when he went for his usual visit after the marriage he was met by Miss Casey's father, who forbade him to return. He finally convinced Mr. Casey that he had married his daughter and the couple received the belated parental welcome. Mrs. Welch did not fare as well, as her father did not appreciate his daughter's romantic spirit and Mr. Welch's parents have not yet become reconciled to their son's marriage.

ROCHESTER BROWN TAIL MOTHS

Cause of Dispute Between the State and City Authorities

Rochester, April 22.—The New Hampshire state agent for destruction of the brown tail moths, Thomas Dearborn of Dover, has placed a large crew of men at work in this city, cutting the brown tail moths from the trees. Mr. Dearborn and the mayor are at odds on the moth question this year, and this is what brought the crew here. Mr. Dearborn claims that the moths should be cut off, while the city fathers this year believed that better results would be gained in having the trees sprayed, and have already purchased a machine to do the work with. The men that are at work for the state in cutting the brown tail moths are, it is alleged, doing damage with their spikes, and there is a big protest in this city against the manner in which the work is being carried on.

CELERY ROOTS

One Kind of Celery Has a Very Good Tuber

Not every one knows there is a variety of celery which makes a large root like a turnip and is an exceedingly fine salad vegetable.

The seed is sown and the plants are planted exactly the same as the better known varieties, but when the roots have grown large enough, which is by the middle of autumn, they are dug up, as wanted, the tops are trimmed off, and the bulbs are then cleaned and scraped and boiled until tender. They are then sliced and laid in weak vinegar to be served like pickles, or they may be served with cream or French dressing the same as potato salad. The flavor is mild and delicious.

Never can tell when you'll mash a finger or suffer a cut, bruise, burn or scald. Be prepared. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil instantly relieves the pain—quickly cures the wound.

HOTEL TO BE REMODELED

The sale of Star Island (Shoals) and the Oceanic hotel was consummated on Friday, the purchaser being Robert S. Brown, representing Boston parties. The hotel will open June 20th. The project is to enlarge the hotel by extending it on the lower end to about double its present length and building in the front centre a tower rising considerably above the roof. The draft of the new plan presents a handsome front.

HAMPTON

Rev. J. A. Ross preached at Kensington on Sunday.

Mrs. Samuel Ware, who entered the hospital at Exeter last week for treatment, is reported to be doing well. Also Mrs. Anna Gookin Smith is in the Anna Jacques hospital at Newburyport recovering from an operation of one week ago.

Miss Susie Dodge of Newburyport is spending a short time as a guest of Mrs. Nye.

There was a very large attendance on Sunday evening to hear Isaac Alcuizar in the town hall who spoke upon "Jewish Home Life."

The ladies of the Baptist church are planning to hold a "birthday" social in their vestry on Friday evening.

Miss Emma Shelton was home on a visit to her mother and brother over the 19th.

Mrs. Grace Parlington and two children went to Dighton, Mass., on Monday to visit her sister.

Mrs. Catherine Clark has been making a visit to her parents the past week, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Perkins.

Kelley Brothers, contractors of Haverhill, Mass., arrived in town on Friday to begin operations for the erection of the Lane Memorial library. The exterior of the building will be constructed of light face brick with stone trimmings. The roof will be slated, with green slate, with copper hips, valleys, ridge roll and finials. The floors will be of birch excepting vestibule, porch, toilet and delivery hall, which will be terrazzo floor. All wood finish on the inside will be of oak, all walls and ceilings to be done in water color. The building will be lighted by electricity, heated by a furnace and will be furnished in quartered oak. The building will contain a reading room, stack room, librarian's room, delivery hall, toilet, vestibule, cloak room and porch. George W. Griffin of Concord is the architect.

Mrs. Harriet Todd of Boston is this week the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. A. Ross.

Our census taker, H. M. Lamprey, is pushing his work with great rapidity. On Monday he made over 100 calls. Being a dull day he found nearly all the men at home.

The Woman's club was entertained in the pleasant home of Mrs. E. Henry Thompson on Monday afternoon. Fifteen members and six guests were present. The programme of the afternoon was of much interest, its topic being "Russia." Three very excellent papers were written and read by the following ladies: "Physical Features," Mrs. Cole; "History," Mrs. J. P. Blake; "Politics and Religion," Mrs. Locke. Current events were given by Mrs. Church, selected quotations by members. Music was furnished by a ladies' quartette. Refreshments of lobster salad, sandwiches, olives, assorted cake, ice cream, coffee and nuts were served by the hostess. A special guest of the hostess was Mrs. Lawrence of Boston.

The first committee meeting of the Hampton Academy Alumni association chosen last June to make arrangements for the 15th anniversary celebration to take place this year was held on Tuesday evening. The place and time only were decided upon; to be held in the town hall on Friday, June 17.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howell M. Lamprey, who has been quite ill with an abscess on the brain, is much improved.

Mrs. Howell M. Lamprey recently entertained her sister, Mrs. Thomas G. Oakes, and Mr. Oakes from Floral Park, Long Island.

GAYNOR ASKS WHY

Replies to Evangelist Who Wants to Convert the Jews.

New York, Apr. 22.—Mayor Gaynor replying yesterday to a letter sent to him by the Rev. Thomas M. Chalmers of the Jewish Evangelization Society asking for a license to preach in the streets of the city for the purpose of converting Jews to Christianity, wrote this:

"Reverend and Dear Sir:—It seems to me that this work of proselytizing from other religions and sects is very often carried too far. Do you not think the Jews have a good religion? Have not the Christians appropriated the entire Jewish sacred scriptures? Was not the New Testament also written entirely by Jews? Was not Jesus also born of the Jewish race, if I may speak of it with due reverence? Did not we Christians get much, or the most, of what we have from the Jews? Why should any one work so hard to proselytize the Jew? His true belief in the one true living God comes down to us even from the twilight of fable and is one of the unbroken lineages and traditions of the world. I do not think I should give you a license to preach for the conversion of the Jews in the streets in the thickly settled Jewish neighborhoods which you designate. Would you not annoy them and do more harm than good? How many Jews have you converted so far? Very truly yours,

"W. J. GAYNOR."

SPOFFORD NOMINATED

Deer Isle Man for Head of Maine Railroad Commission

Augusta, Mo., April 22.—Elmer P. Spofford of Deer Isle was nominated by Governor Fernald on Friday as chairman of the Maine board of railroad commissioners to succeed Joseph B. Peaks of Dover, who has held the position sixteen years, and was a candidate for reappointment.

The nomination comes up for confirmation at the next meeting of the governor and council, which will be held next Friday. The appointment takes effect next month at the expiration of Colonel Peaks' term. The law requires that the lawyer member of the board shall be the chairman. The other commissioners are dread having to prepare an elaborate dinner because they are not sufficiently strong to stand over an intensely hot coal range. This is especially true in summer. Every woman takes pride in the table she sets, but often it is done at tremendous cost to her own vitality through the weakening effect of cooking on a coal range in a hot kitchen.

It is no longer necessary to wear yourself out preparing a fine dinner. Even in the heat of summer you can cook a large dinner without being worn out.

CADILLAC COOLING SYSTEM
UNIQUE IN EFFICIENCY

Radiator Never Known to Leak, Save When Damaged by Accident—Composed of 150 Copper Tubes

A record which is pronounced extraordinary in the automobile industry—and which, rather than incidentally, directs renewed interest to the development of motor car manufacturing methods—is that a Cadillac radiator has never been known to leak unless collision or some other mishap inflicted damage upon this vital and least protected part of the chassis.

The Cadillac radiator is unusual in its construction and to the manner of its manufacture is doubtless due its spotless record. For the same reason that copper is used in the cylinder water jackets—its extreme radiating power, or ability to throw off heat—copper is used throughout in the Cadillac radiator. There are 150 seamless tubes of ample diameter, which pass vertically through 120 horizontal copper plates.

The fact that seamless tubes are used, eliminated the necessity for immersion of the entire tube in molten solder, a process adopted to guard against leaks, where other than seamless tubes are used. Hence the radiating power of the copper tubes and plates is heightened by the application of solder only to the intersections of tubes and plates, not even the latter being immersed.

Though the copper tubes are seamless and the possibility of leaking thus reduced to a minimum, they are subjected to tests and inspection, as exacting as those which characterize the manufacture of the other Cadillac parts. Before assembly the tubes are tested; and the completed radiator is again tested by high air and water pressure. It is claimed for the Cadillac radiator that it has never been known to hold the water.

TAFI'S RECORD

President Taft has been in office thirteen and one-half months. He has done a large amount of work in that time. That he has done so much is a matter for surprise, since the task has been the difficult one of constructing the legislation. President Roosevelt had the much less difficult task of agitation which must always precede changes in national policy.

Here are a list of some of the more important things accomplished by the president, or by the president and congress in thirteen and one-half months:

1. Taken judicial appointments out of politics.
2. Made the taking of the thirteenth census non-political.
3. Declared for the extension of civil service.
4. Secured a downward revision of the tariff.
5. Established a Court of Customs Appeals.
6. Brought about the creation of a tariff board.
7. Effected the passage of a corporation tax law, with the accruing surveillance of corporate activities.
8. Had the question of an income tax amendment by the Constitution submitted to the States.
9. Accomplished Governmental economies in the estimates for 1911, and in retrenchment in salaries, supplies, etc.
10. Inaugurated the policy of continuing contract for river and harbor improvements.
11. Secured the investigation of frauds in the custom houses at New York and elsewhere.

Here are some of the things now under process of legislation or which on the president's recommendation are now before Congressional committees. The president has:

1. Declared for the complete accomplishment of the so-called Roosevelt conservation policies, recommending a bond issue for irrigation projects.
2. Urged federal incorporation and complete Federal supervision and control of corporate stock and bond issues, and the dissolution of the "holding company."
3. Urged legislation giving the Interstate Commerce Commission quasi-judicial functions, and creating a Court of Commerce to review the commission's findings.
4. Championed the matter of civil pensions for superannuated clerks.
5. Declared for publicity of campaign funds. The bill is expected to pass Congress within a few weeks.

Isn't that a pretty good record? Hasn't the republican party good reason to feel proud of it?

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

There isn't one man in 10,000 who has the remotest idea of the vast number of uses to which the once despised cotton seed is now being put, says Captain B. J. Holmes of New Orleans. From the clean seed are obtained linters and meats and hulls, the hulls making the best and most fattening feed for cattle that has yet been found. From the linters are gathered material for mattresses, felt, wads, paper, rope and a grade of underwear, and likewise cellulose, out of which gun cotton is made. The meats furnish oil and meal, the oil after refining being now in almost universal use in the kitchens of this and other countries. Before refinement to the edible stage the oil is known as stearine, winter oil and white oil, ole-stearine, winter oil and white oil, oleomargarine being the product of stearine. The white oil is the chief ingredient in compound lards. The original oil, also known as soap stock, has fatty acids used in the manufacture of soaps, roofing tar, paints and glycerine, and from this comes the explosive nitro-glycerine. I might also add that the meal, aside from its use as cattle provender, is transformed into bread, cake, crackers and even candy. Last of all come the doctors who are saying that this wonderful seed is a boon to the sick, since from its oil an emulsion is prepared that has been known to be of value in tuberculosis and other ailments.

Consul John F. Jewell, at Melbourne submits the following report concerning a new method of treating wood which has been invented and tried with much success in Australia: "The essential part of the Powell wood process consists in boiling the wood and allowing it to cool and absorb a saccharine solution, after which it is dried, rendering the wood thoroughly seasoned within a few days after cutting. Increasing its strength and stopping all warping and shrinking. The sap in the wood is driven out and replaced by an antiseptic, owing to the saccharine solution boiling at a higher temperature than water, thus making the wood impervious to dry rot and to the attacks of white ants and other parasites which prey on ordinary lumber."

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Aldrich and Hale

The importance, not to say the gravity, of the announcements of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Hale which appear today is very great. The two men are at the top in the Senate. The chairman of the finance committee and the chairman of the appropriations committee exert a powerful influence in that body. In each, large experience is united to large ability. In debating power, as distinguished from mere speaking, they have had few peers in their thirty years of service as senators. Agreeing on all the weightier questions, they have stood together in all the momentous contests of their time, and been conspicuous in the shaping of much valuable legislation.

Two questions spring out of these announcements. (1) What will be the effect on the uncompleted portion of the present republican program? And (2) what will be the effect on this year's campaigns?

Mr. Aldrich has made a study of the currency problem and the country has come to look to him for valuable service in its settlement. It is a problem for the next congress, and Mr. Aldrich's commission expires with this congress. He might, it is true, continue his interest in the subject and assist from private life, but that would not compare with what he would be able to do as a member of the senate in charge of the bill.

Mr. Hale has for years given attention to the naval problem, and did not surrender his interest in it when he surrendered the chairmanship of the naval committee. His views have at times clashed with those of the more ardent advocates of a large navy, but he has not stood for crippling that arm of the national defense. Whenever he speaks on the subject he adds to the interest of the discussion.

As for the effect of the announcements on the year's campaign, it is likely to be against the republican party. True, impaired health is given as the reason for retirement in both cases, but that will not silence the spellbinders, who will see, or tell voters that they see, another sign that the republican party is breaking up and will soon be a thing of the past. With the veterans in both the Senate and the House under fire, and some in retreat, what is to prevent the opposition from entering and possessing the land? Such will be the interpretation put upon the matter far and wide by the democrats, and in the present state of unrest and uncertainty it is bound to have some influence at the polls.

Political developments for a year past have been unusual and in some cases startling, and, in the language of melodrama, the end is not yet—Washington Star.

NATIVE OF CROYDON

Boston, April 23.—The death of Charles Edwin Hurd, who had been literary editor of the Boston Transcript for nearly thirty years, was announced today.

Mr. Hurd was born in Croydon, N. H., in 1833. His first important newspaper work was done when he accompanied the invading forces at the time of the Fenian raid on Canada.

In 1874 he became literary editor of the Transcript. He was an artist and author of note. Among his works was a history of the United States.

A TIMELY TOPIC.

The Value of Reserve Power

IN every department of life, physical, mental and moral reserves are of incalculable value. Many people work so hard that they exhaust their physical energies each day. They make it a matter of conscience to waste through just as much work as possible every day, no matter how painfully it is done, not realizing the tremendous value of keeping oneself vigorous, buoyant.

No life can be vigorous if it is not kept fresh, responsive, by great physical and mental reserves. As hibernating animals, like the bear, in cold climates sustain life through the winter wholly upon the reserve fat and nutriment stored up in the tissues, so patients who have splendid physical reserves and resisting power are carried through severe sicknesses and sustained through severe illnesses by this reserve surplus, stored-up vital power, while those who lack it, those who have dissipated it in abnormal living and excesses, often lose their lives, even in much less severe illness.

Great business men accomplish marvels with their reserves. Many of them work but a few hours a day, but they have such tremendous physical reserves and so much stored-up mental energy that they are able to accomplish wonders in a short time, because of their ability to work with great intensity and powerful concentration.

People who keep their physical and mental surplus drawn down very low by working a great many hours and almost never taking vacations, who do not fill their reserve reservoir by frequent vacations and by a lot of recreation and play, do not work with anything like the freshness and mental vigor of those who work less hours and constantly accumulate great reserve power.

There comes into every life worth while a time when success will turn upon the reserve power. It is then a question of how long your stored-up energy will enable you to hold out. There will often arise emergencies when your success will depend upon how much fight there is in you.

THE OBSERVER.

THE NEWSPAPER MAN

He seldom is handsome or pretty,
And has none of the charms of the dude,

Is oft more abstracted than chatty,
And sometimes unbearably rude.
He courts us, then, slights us and grieves us,

As much as he possibly can;
He kisses us, loves us and leaves us,
This perfidious newspaper man.

Our mothers won't have him come calling,

He's no earthly good as a "catch";
His morals (they say) are appalling;
His finances usually match,
He's rollicking, reckless, uncaring,
Lives but for the hour, the day;
He's dangerous, dubious, daring.
Not fit for a husband, they say.

But somehow we girls are forgiving,
Perhaps he but needs us the more because he goes wrong in the living
And knows the old world to its core.
So we pass up the dude and the schemer,

Who lead in society's van,
And cherish the thinker and dreamer
Enshrined in the newspaper man.

Willie Doolittle's "Facts About
Nearby Towns" in the Newburyport
News are all right as far as they go;
but "Willie" evidently never has been "Waiting at the Church" over in Smithtown for a car home, or he would never have overlooked that fact. A few friends and myself made up a Mayflowering party, a few years ago to the above town. We got away early and took a lunch with us, intending to roam around the most of the day, but, having gathered a good supply of the flowers by noon, and the weather looking threatening, we returned to the corner for a car back.
The next car was due in about ten minutes, so a native told us, but it was nearly two hours before a car loomed up through the mist, which by that time was coming down pretty fast. I asked the conductor if there had been an accident that caused the delay, and he said no; that they quite frequently had to skip a trip for lack of power. As the other "Facts" may interest our readers I reprint them:

No matter how big a sucker a Gloucester fellow may actually be, he'll get madder than a wet hen should you call him a fish.

A great deal among the girls of Rockport is to have the backbone of a herring mounted with a pretty design done in silver and then use it for a back comb.

The Byfield girl always has a good supply of snuff in her muff—during the summer.

The girls employed in the stocking factory at Ipswich, seek it to her 52 hours a week and they have Sundays off. They are great consumers of chewing gum and should you chance to visit the mill you would hardly be able to tell whether it was a mill plant or a spearmint plant.

In Newburyport the girls at the Chase-Shawmut Electric company, they claim, make great speakers, and at the Cordage company you can get now on sale at Music Hall box office, them on a rope quicker than any girls I have met to date.

The Beverly girls think that in drinking soda water the Salem girls are right there with the tunnel, and the Salem girl thinks the Beverly girl is a little bit old fashioned and should go back to the farms.

It is claimed that Marblehead girls can throw rocks with a curve to 'em, like a base ball pitcher—thus the expression, "Rock ye 'round th' corner."

The Amesbury girl sees so many automobiles going from the factories each day, that she sometimes dreams of getting one herself—in the neck—Willie Doolittle in Newburyport News.

"Ten years hence, to be the father of 10 or 12 children will be as much of a disgrace as being a confirmed drunkard is at present," declares Mrs. Lorette Helen Baker of Spokane, Wash., a suffragette, who will be heard along original lines of thought at the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association which opened in Washington the other day. Her studies of children all over the world, she said, had convinced her that "not more than 10 per cent of them are children of love and that the other 90 per cent are not wanted."

"Roosevelt, poor ignorant man," she continued, "urges large families, but I can tell you it is quality we want in children, not quantity. Woman suffrage will mean better children, for it will produce better thinking. It is the mental, not the physical, that rules progressive action today and teaches us that the greatest crime of the ages is too many children." Parents, thinks Mrs. Baker, should be taught the responsibility of bringing children into the world. "When they have learned that fully nine-tenths of all the babies born every year are nothing more or less than human culls, I believe the birth rate will decrease and we shall have a better and stronger race."

The world's record for size and capacity is now held by the new chimney at Great Falls, Mont. It was completed in October last, is 508 feet high and will take care of 4,000,000 cubic feet of gas per minute at a temperature of 600 degrees Fahrenheit. As a protection against corrosion it is lined with acid proof blocks laid in mortar, made of silicate of soda, asbestos and other refractory materials. Work was carried on during high winds, when a plumb line could not be used, by means of a special set of levels. As a means of communication between the men above and those below a system of tin speaking tubes was used. In the construction of the chimney and its system of flues, 17,000 tons of brick and mortar were handled.

Thousands of moose antlers are annually destroyed by rot and worms in the Maine woods. The moose drop their antlers from Dec. 15 to Jan. 1 and the dampness and the worms get in their work. When the hunters enter the woods in the fall there are few antlers to be found. In the old days it was possible for a man to pick up a hayrack full in an afternoon, one man boasting that he filled two box cars with almost perfect antlers in a very short time, clearing $300 in the transaction.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

NEGLECTS.

The tea gown has attained a luxury at which our great grandmothers would gasp in amazement. Materials used in the construction of this delightfully feminine garment are of the richest, and priceless laces are employed to further emphasize the cost and beauty.

Liberty, net and mousseline de sole in the delicate colors are most in favor. Laces are thrown over silk velvet in flat knots to hold pleats in their proper places, and ribbon and braid are used with lavishness to decorate. The princess shape, always flowing, is generally used. A tunic over drapery, embroidered with silk and beads and held loosely on the foundation by bands of silk, is an idea that is universally becoming.

Many of the negligees have a hint of the diaphane, with crossed vests of brocades or headed net.

Jackets of lace are used to outline the form; pleated chiffon over and under net is always irresistible.

The kimono's have been relegated to the background, giving place to the short "redingote" style, with long straight sleeves, and trimmed with knots of lace and ribbon.

COLOR UNDER BLACK.

For the amateur there is a wonderful black chiffon blouse that promises respite from the cleaner's bill, while supplying that craving for a less somber garment of all black.

White mouseline is the lining—creamy white at that—and across the shoulders of this underbodice is placed a three inch band of gold net lace with touches of bronze and silver in its pattern.

This reaches across the front on an ordinary yoke line, round the shoulders and across the back, where it fastens with the cream silk lining. Below this, at the bust line and going round the figure, is hung a second and, and over this beautiful background is draped black chiffon in rucks and folds or in whatever form pattern the wearer affects.

However it is made, its lining, showing through, will eliminate all trace of the dullness of dead black chiffon, while the blouse will be in perfect harmony with the black broadcloth suit—a garment not in the least easy to provide with a separate blouse.

CAMEO BROOCHES AGAIN.

Our grandmothers' cameo brooches, after having been for well high 50 years forgotten, are being revived in the interest of the flat collar. This collar needed something to finish it where it met in front, and into the niche slipped the old world cameo brooch.

These pretty flat collars are having a very good lining; we all thought they would have been over long ago, but the fact is they never got popular to the degree that would have meant sudden death.

ITS ONLY INDUSTRY

The Alfred Embroidery Plant Has Been Shut Down

Alfred, Me., April 23.—The town of Alfred on Thursday lost its only industry when the Alfred Embroidery Manufacturing company closed its plant for an indefinite period, for the reason, the superintendent said, that the unskilled operatives spoiled so much stock that each day saw a loss instead of a profit. The company, which has been in operation about a year, employed about sixty hands, most of them women and girls, practically all of whom were from towns in York county. Many Alfred people are stockholders in the concern. Whether the plant shall be reopened will be determined at a meeting of the stockholders, which will be called in a week or two.

ONE MOMENT

PLEASE!

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, but signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours,

BIG SHOW AT MUSIC HALL TO-DAY
In spite of the dismal weather of last evening a large audience attended the vaudeville and motion pictures
at Music hall.
"Belows and Temple" in their dramatic sketch, "The Little Prince,"
made a big hit. "The Little Prince,"
a little chap only five years old, is not only one of the youngest but one of the brightest and cleverest children
on the American stage today.
Millie Ricardo, a dashing soubrette full of plenty of fun and spirit, will be well remembered in Portsmouth. Millie does some very clever character
work and is well applauded.
The great Beaudinos, a clever pair of gymnasts, does some very difficult tricks never used by any others in his line.
The pictures are of the usual standard and are both pleasing and instructive.
The pictures will change today and will include the famous story of St.
Elmo, a product of the Vitaphone Co., who are now considered one of the best companies of today. The other films are all new and shown for the first time at Music hall.

DOVER DOINGS
Dover, April 23.—Work on the state road has begun at Dover Point, under the direction of Foreman Hartnett, and from now on work will be pushed along as rapidly as is consistent.
The section where work was begun
will be constructed of crushed stone,
as will also a section near this city
from Central avenue to the lower Catholic cemetery. The remainder of the road will be built of gravel and clay, the best quality of gravel is to be used.
A council of the United Commercial Travelers' association was formed in this city Friday evening at Malta hall,
and the local council started auspiciously. The territory embraced covers this city, Portsmouth, Rochester, South Berwick, Salmon Falls, Somers-
worth and Farmington. Grand Councillor James G. Gerry of Lewiston, Me.
was among the prominent members present. Officers of the Manchester council, No. 156, came here with other members of the council, and explained the degree work. First

I think a word of praise is due to tee; chaplain, T. J. Cheesley.

A pleasant social event took place
Friday evening at American hall, when the Pastime club entertained an exceptionally large number of guests at a dancing party. A delegation of friends from South Berwick and Somersworth was present to enjoy the festivities of the evening and all present were royally entertained.
A special train leaving this city at 5 o'clock will convey the members of Dover council, Knights of Columbus, to Nashua on Fast day, where they will be the guests of the council of that place.

OLD HOME WEEK CELEBRATION ASSURED
ing to the fact that there were two holidays in them.
Mayor Adams stated that it was the date mentioned by the council when the money was appropriated, but that if it was the sentiment of the citizens that the date should be changed, the council would do it.

Councillor Stoddard stated that he was the one that proposed the $1000 appropriation, and he did it not for personal, but for the benefit of the city. As he saw it, the fellows drifted away from this city, but were brought back by Old Home Week celebrations, to renew their interest in the city. It was sentiment, but without it there was no confidence and, without confidence no business.

The $1000 appropriation was enough to carry out the Old Home Week celebration, as he saw it, but if it was to be along the lines of 1873, the citizens would need to contribute their mite to make up a sum that would be necessary to carry out the plans.

Mr. John W. Kelley was the next speaker, and he said that when the matter was started he, like many others, did not think much about it, but following the appropriation of $1000 by the city council and the advertising of the fact that the city was to hold an Old Home Week celebration, and invite the sons and daughters back, there was only one question, and that was not, are we going to have it, but, rather, how much of a celebration are we going to have.
It would be a black eye of the city failed to have the celebration after the fact had been advertised. There was only two things that could be said, either that we do not want them to come back or that we can't afford to hold the celebration. As a matter of fact, we do want them to come back and we can afford to hold the celebration. The city has in the past held big celebrations and the money was always forthcoming, and this will be no exception. At the most, $3000 would be enough for a good celebration and this sum can be raised among the citizens without any difficulty. If the date is not right, that is simply a matter of detail and can be changed. The Old Home Week celebration is something peculiar to New Hampshire, and should be encouraged. He suggested the revival of "horribles," boat races, public meeting parades, etc., that would be a good program. He said he understood that in 1873 there were 1100 sons and daughters returned, and with them
thousands of others.

Mr. H. P. Montgomery agreed with Mr. Kelley, that it must be held and that the city could swing it all right, but he thought that the date was not a good one. He suggested a week in August, when everything was at its height, as the best time. An automobile parade could then be a feature.

Mr. Stoddard stated that the suggestion of the third, fourth and fifth of July was for the reason that the Fourth comes on Monday—that gave Sunday and Monday as everybody's holidays, and in Boston and New York Saturday was a holiday, so that everybody could get away to come for those days.

Mr. F. W. Hartford was the next speaker, and he opened by saying that his position on celebrations was well understood. He believed that a celebration either summer or winter, that brought a crowd into the city, was for its benefit. A celebration was giving publicity to the city, which was what was needed. At this time it would renew the publicity gained from the Peace conference. As to the difference of opinion on dates, he favored the August date for the reason that the city was then at its best with all of the surrounding resorts in full swing. The first week of July was known as opening week and there was not much doing, and while there was some sentiment in holding the celebration the same days as in 1873, it was not a good business proposition
now. He called the attention to the fact that some of the best restaurants had to remain closed holidays, and this would not be for the benefit of the celebration, where there was so many to look after. The presence of the fleet of battleships would mean a big crowd from all parts of the state. He was confident that the thing would be handled right, for the city had the reputation of doing things about right, and they would live up to it now.

Col. Thomas B. O. Marvin, an ex-mayor of this city, now residing in Boston, was the next speaker, and he delivered a very interesting address.
He said that he was very glad to be present at this time and to meet old companions, school friends and acquaintances and to make new friends.
He happened to be in this city looking over the old homestead in New Castle, in preparation for opening it for the summer season, when he was asked to be present. He would come back to the Old Home Week celebration, not as a citizen as in 1873, but as an exile returning to renew old friendship. Although now absent from the city he was always willing to help anything along that favored the city. He called attention to the fact that this city possessed untold advantages, in fact it had always hidden its light under a bushel.

New York, Boston and Philadelphia are spending millions to make what God gave Portsmouth. He predicted that there was but a short time before the great advantages of this city's harbor was recognized by the big railroads. He said that the city did not advertise its facilities, and such a celebration as thought of would. He spoke of the meeting of the Portsmouth sons in Boston, at the hotel Bellevue last week. It was a big gathering and a body of men that any city could well be proud of. Some of them had not been here for thirty years, others had left here when children and were now prominent residents of Boston. All were enthusiastic over the return to this city and few who live here have any idea of the strong ties that bind the absent
sons and daughters to the old city.
The meeting voted to come back for the celebration and an adjournment was taken for another week, when a larger meeting will be held at which time the Portsmouth Sons and Daughters' association will be formed. They did not want the city to burden themselves with a big celebration, but simply wanted the glad hand of welcome
when they came back. They will leave everything to come here for old kindred greetings, knowing that there was no place like home, no friends like old friends and no hand grasp like that of an old friend. He dwelt on the wonderful history of this city and the part her sons had taken in the history of the country, but unlike Massachusetts, it never had anybody to exploit her heroes of the sea and land. He told of his experience with Kearsarge engine and the volunteer crew of forty firemen, who went to Boston at the time of the big fire and saved the Old South church, being the only engine that could throw a stream high enough to check the flames on the steeple, and the good feeling of the people of Boston for the department after the fire.

Mr. Frank J. Philbrick was called upon, but he remarked that he had said all he cared to in his letter,
published in this paper.
Col. John H. Bartlett brought the matter to a head with a motion that an Old Home Week celebration be held and that the mayor appoint an executive committee of which he (the mayor) would be chairman, to have full charge of the arrangements and the appointment of the other committees. Mayor Adams declined to serve as the chairman for lack of time to give, but stood willing to do anything possible, and the motion being changed to make the mayor chairman ex-officio, it was carried and the mayor appointed the following committee, which will increase itself to the required size:

The committee, F. W. Hartford,
Frank J. Philbrick, Charles W. Gray,
Col. John H. Bartlett, Chief Engineer
John D. Randall, E. P. Stoddard,
John W. Kelley, Esq., Geo. E. French,
Col. John Pender and Col. True L.
Norris.

This committee will meet at four o'clock this afternoon to organize and increase its membership to possibly twenty-five.
Burpee Woods was the last speaker and he favored a later date, for the reason that the city would be better able to handle the people and also mentioned that there was a big circus coming July first, and this might interfere in a measure.
The meeting adjourned at nine o'clock.

ELECTRICITY IN PACKAGES
If it were practicable for a housewife to buy a package of electricity, we would need no city franchise to deliver our product.
We would not have to make a large investment in street mains, service wires, and meters, nor would we have to employ a force to inspect and read the meters.
Under these conditions we could sell Electricity at a much lower price
than we now sell Electric Service.
Were it possible to handle electricity in the way that groceries and coal are handled, we could install an electric automobile express larger than the largest trucking concern in this city, for a ridiculous fraction of the cost of our distributing system.
But forces to accept certain things
as they are, we have to invest more money in our electricity distributing equipment than for our generating apparatus.
So we can't sell the electricity in packages, but we would like to sell you some to be wired into your house, stable, shop, store or office and then keep the electricity on hand on the wire so that you can use it when you want it.

Free Receipt for Weak Men
Gentleman Will Send It Confidentially, Free and Sealed, to very Weak and Unable Man Who Writes for It.

I have in my possession a prescription for various debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men, right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power
and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So, I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.
This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men, and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.
I think I owe it to my fellow man
to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere who is weak and discouraged, with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure
what I believe is the quickest acting, restorative upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCH-ING remedy ever devised, and, so, cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. B. Robinson, 4724 Tenth Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

ORGANIZING FOR FAIR PRICES

ROGERS

FORTUNE

Only One-Third What it Was Thought to Be

New York, April 23.—Henry Hudson Rogers, who was credited with building up the Standard Oil's multi-million, left for his heirs hardly a third of the immense fortune credited to him by Wall street reports. Instead of the $100,000,000 which outsiders estimated as a conservative figure for the amount of the Rogers estate, the executors have estimated it at something under $35,000,000, and have paid a preliminary inheritance tax on this estimate.

Henry H. Rogers died May 19 last, and his executors, who are his son, Henry H. Rogers, John W. Sterling, Walter P. Winsor and the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, waited until the very last day of the six months period before filing a preliminary report with the state comptroller.

Then, on Nov. 18, they filed an estimate and report and paid the transfer tax. Their estimate of the value of all the property owned by Henry H. Rogers was $35,000,000. An error of 5 per cent. either way is allowable under the rules of the state comptroller's office, and granting that the full allowance might be asked for when the final accounting comes, the total estate would be but $35,910,000. No appraiser has yet been named for the estate, though the law requires that a final appraisement be submitted to the comptroller within eighteen months of death, except where, under special circumstances, an extension of time is procured.

The disclosure that Mr. Rogers died worth only $35,000,000 lends considerable color to stories circulated for two years before his death that he had been badly "squeezed" in the "silent panic" of March, 1907. Rogers had become greatly overextended, as the Wall street rumors went, during the bull boom of 1906 and when prices of all stocks began to drop alarmingly in the spring of 1907 men who were known to represent Rogers were found selling out large blocks of stocks which rumor attributed to the Standard Oil Vice President.

Before this panic conservative estimates of Rogers' fortune ran all the way from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. But it was known he had tied up a large part of his fortune in promoting the Virginian railway. This road, a pet scheme of the financier, runs from Norfolk to Deepwater, 442 miles and was formally opened April 3, 1909, less than two months before his death.

The millions he had found it necessary to sink in building the tidewater road compelled Rogers to unload a large amount of securities just at the time when prices were dropping. His selling activities did not encourage the market and the "silent panic," if not caused by his operations to secure cash, at least was not delayed any. Shortly afterward Rogers suffered a slight paralytic stroke which compelled him to abandon the active personal care of his own affairs, and when the big October panic came he was helpless to stem the tide.

During his life Rogers made many benefactions to his home town of Fairhaven, Mass., where he owned a large place. The total of these gifts aggregated possibly $3,000,000, but his own estate there was worth less than one-third of this sum. By his will he left practically all he owned in trust for his children, subject only to a bequest of $100,000 a year to his widow, Emile R. Rogers. This will was made on May 7, 1907, just after his first paralytic stroke.

SANDFORD ON HIS WAY HOME

Leader of the Holy Ghost Society
Back from Holy Land.

Lewiston, Me., April 23.—Frank W. Sandford, the leader of the Holy Ghost society, is said to be on his way to the Hilltop at Durham. He has already sailed on the barkentine Kingdon from the Holy Land and it is thought that he is headed for Portland. It is expected that he will arrive in port next week.

About a week ago the members of the society on board the Coronet started to put the yacht in shape and since that time they have been scrubbing woodwork, painting and giving the famous craft a general overhauling. At first it was thought that she was being put in condition to leave port, but today it is believed that those on board wish to have everything shipshape upon the arrival of their leader.

fall with the Rev. Mr. Sandford on board, and while it was thought that he was bound for the Holy Land he gave out no information as to his destination and his whereabouts have not been known. When the Kingdom sailed the Coronet was left in this port, but a few days later she went to sea. It was thought that she also was bound for the Holy Land and that those on board were going to join Mr. Sandford, but a few days later the yacht put into Boston, where she remained at anchor for several weeks. She then returned to Portland and since that time her anchor has not been taken up, and her sails have remained snugly furled unless they were shaken out to dry.

It is said here that the members of the society at Shiloh are hard at work and that they are having everything placed in readiness for the return of Mr. Sandford. It has also been intimated here that the reason for the winter trip to the Holy Land was for the purpose of bringing the colony in the far away land back to Shiloh, so the arrival of the Kingdom is naturally awaited with interest.

CHANCE FOR DISMISSED CADETS

Senate Resolution Would Give Them Opportunity to Have Trials by Court-Martial.

A resolution providing for the reinstatement of eight former cadets of West Point academy, to give them an opportunity to have trials by court-martial, has been reported to the senate from the Military affairs committee.

The resolution names as beneficiaries William T. Russell, Jr., and Harry G. Weaver, who were dismissed two years ago, and John H. Booker, Jr., Albert E. Crane, Jacob S. Fortner, Gordon Lefebvre, Chauncey Devore and Earl W. Dunmore, who were dismissed last summer.

The new hazing law incorporated in the military academy appropriation bill, which entitles cadets to be tried by court-martial, was not made retroactive and the former cadets named have no rights under it unless given by special act of Congress. Debate in the house, while the military academy bill was under discussion would indicate that the resolution would not be adopted there.

SIMPLE FUNERAL
FOR MARK TWAIN

New York, April 23.—A simple funeral service over the body of Samuel L. Clemens will be held in this city this afternoon. The remains will then be taken to Elmira, N. Y., where it will be buried beside those of his wife and children. F. A. Duneka of Harper and Brothers, Mr. Clemens' publishers, who is making the arrangements for the funeral, said that it was the wish of the family that the services be as brief as possible.

Later on a public memorial service will be held in some large hall. Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton university will preach the funeral sermon at the service today, which will be held at the Brick Presbyterian church, Thirty-seventh street and Fifth avenue, at three o'clock. The funeral, Mr. Duneka said, will be of a semi-public nature, and will be attended by only relatives and close friends of the dead author. There will be no pall bearers, and although final arrangements have not been made the service probably will consist of merely a short address by Dr.

Van Dyke. There probably will be no music, Mr. Duneka said. The body was brought from New York to Reading, Conn., at noon today on a special car. After the funeral the body will be taken to Elmira, where another service, as simple as the one here, will be held. This service will probably be at the home of General Langdon, a relative of Mr. Clemens, and so far as now known will consist simply of a short address by Rev. Dr. Joseph Twitchell of Hartford, Conn., one of Mr. Clemens' old friends. From the Langdon home the body will be removed to the cemetery to be laid to rest. No arrangements have been made for the public memorial service. Mr. Duneka said it probably would be held in a week or ten days, in some large hall in this city, and that it would be open to the public. On account of the almost private nature of the funeral services, it is felt by Mr. Clemens' relatives that some such services should be held at which the public may gather in expression of its affection for the dead humorist.

BATTLESHIPS SOON
TO START FOR HOME

Washington, April 23.—Firing with the big guns has been begun by the Atlantic battleship fleet off the Virginia Capes in the elementary target practice Rear Admiral Schroeder, commander-in-chief, reports by wireless that the fleet has practically completed firing with the six and seven-inch guns of all ships and has begun with the big guns. Owing to the loss by heavy weather of two target rafts the fleet was compelled to divide into three divisions in order to utilize the remaining three targets. Practice has been delayed not only by bad weather conditions, but also by passing steamers and sailing craft. Despite these adverse conditions, Admiral Schroeder reports that excellent scores were made.

It is impossible to tell just how soon the elementary practice will be completed, but it is not believed that it will take more than a week. The vessels of the fleet will then disperse to their respective home yards for repairs and installation of turret gear, some of which was authorized two years ago. The latter will delay the battleships in getting away for their summer maneuvers in Cape Cod bay, each ship steaming to Provincetown, the summer headquarters, as rapidly as completed.

FUNERAL OF
DR. BAILEY

Manchester, April 23.—Simply of detail and the magnificence of the floral tribute characterized the services Friday afternoon over the remains of the late Dr. George A. Bailey at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Arthur B. Dicey, at 34 Elm street.

The parlor where the casket stood was literally filled with the most beautiful flowers, many having been sent from Washington and from various sections of this vicinity, a tribute indeed to the memory of the departed, and each bright flower a message of sympathy and a ray of light to those who are to mourn him.

Among those gathered for the services at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon were representatives of the various organizations of which Dr. Bailey was a member, and who have been associated with him in public life, together with family friends, among those from out of town being Postmaster John T. Welch of Dover, Capt. and Mrs. F. E. H. Marden of Portsmouth, Mr. John G. Cutler and Mr. T. E. Robinson of Hampton, Mr. Moses A. Perkins of Epping, Dr. F. S. Towle of Portsmouth, Prof. W. F. Gleason of Providence, R. I., Miss Lilla M. Phelps of Concord, Mr. George Rice of Rindge, Mr. A. E. Phelps of Greenwood, Mass., Mr. True E. Prescott, the Hon. Marcellus Gould of Penacook and Mrs. Addie K. Robinson of Belmont, Mass.

The casket was of black broad cloth, metallic lined, and with silver trimmings, the plate being simply inscribed with the name and date. The flowers, which were arranged with exquisite taste, were everywhere, a plume of Jacqueminot roses from the husband, father and grandfather, being laid upon the cover, and those from his Washington associates were given a conspicuous position.

The Rev. C. S. Frost, pastor of the First Free Baptist church, who in his boyhood days was associated with the deceased, officiated, the service being confined to the reading of the Scriptures, prayer and to the giving of Tennyson's beautiful poem, "Crossing the Bar."

The Hoffman male quartet rendered three selections, "Come Unto Me," by Parks; "Art Thou Weary," by Barnby; and "Savior, Comfort Me," by The Honorary bearers were Mr. George I. McAllister of the Knights Templar, Mr. William G. Garmon of the I. O. O. T., Mr. Frank L. Way of the grand lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Hon. John C. Bickford of the Workmen.

Carriers were Captain Steele, Sergeant Callaghan and Patrolmen Coolidge and Kenny.

Interment was made in the family lot at Pine Grove cemetery, where, amid the arrangement of canvas and flowers, the committal service was held.

JAPANESE HEROISM

Kobe, Japan, April 23.—A story of the heroism of Japanese naval men was found Friday in the memorandum of the lieutenant commander of the Japanese submarine which sank in the harbor at Kure last Friday. The submarine was raised and opened, revealing that its three officers and 11 men had been asphyxiated.

The memorandum carefully explained the mechanical causes of the boat's sinking and described the attempts to refloat it. The lieutenant praised the courage of his subordinates, all of whom said they were glad to die for Japan. The last request was that the Emperor would provide for their families.

The memorandum was continued until the writer was overcome, as he described the painful breathing of himself and comrades.

WHITE HOUSE
CONFERENCE

General Discussion of Plans
to Hurry Legislation

PROGRAM OF PRECIDENT

Leaders in Senate and House Pledge
Hearty Support of Administration
Methods—Little Progress Toward Legislation Made Thus Far—Most Serious Trouble Appears to Be Over
the Postal Savings Bank Proposition

Washington, April 23.—The conference of leading Republicans with President Taft over the postal savings bank bill was one of the most important yet held at the White House, in its probable effect upon the legislative program of President Taft.

The men attending were Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, Senators Aldrich, Carter, Root and Crane, Speaker Cannon and Representatives Weeks of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee on postoffices and post roads, to which the savings bank bill has been referred, and Representative Gardner of New Jersey, a member of that committee.

While the conference was called primarily to consider the legislative status of the postal bank bill, the discussion took a wide range and included a general consideration of the whole legislative situation.

The men attending the conference are not disclosing its results with great freedom, probably for strategic reasons, but it is known that a definite line of procedure was decided on, and that all the conferees pledged their hearty support to the president's measures, in so far as they could be got before congress in such form as would enable the president to approve them.

Senator Aldrich will stand by President Taft through thick and thin during the remainder of his term in the senate. The Rhode Island senator personally does not wholly approve the White House program, particularly the savings bank proposition, but he has been deeply hurt by the reiterated charges in the press that he is acting in bad faith toward the administration.

The postal savings bank bill presents the hardest problem the president has to face at the Capitol. It assailed the senate against the judgment of the leaders and overlying an amendment forced into it by the insurgents designed to keep the postal funds in the communities where deposited and to prohibit the government from making use of the funds for its own uses except in case of war.

This amendment which is wholly in the interest of the chiefly state banks, is regarded as a administrative as bad economic and bad financial. President Taft makes it no secret that he would not sign the bill if it contained this prohibition, and the Republican insurgents in the senate all supported the amendment with this knowledge, although professing sincere loyalty to the administration.

The same element favorable to the amendment exists in the house, where it threatens the defeat of the bill, regardless of the private opinions of members, if it is not retained. The amendment is openly opposed by conservative members on the ground not only that it prevents the government from making any use of the enormous sums for whose safety it will be responsible, but that it offers overwhelming temptations to divert the money to all kinds of local improvement projects which would encourage an era of unbounded extravagance.

While these things are so, they add rather than detract from the political potency of the measure. Indeed, it is stated that many members who personally agree that the senate bill is doubtful finance will feel impelled to vote for it by the demands of their constituents.

The house has not yet been thoroughly canvassed to determine how the bill will stand when it reaches the floor, but unless a clear majority for the amended bill can be shown, a caucus of the Republicans to decide upon a plan of action will be necessary.

The railroad bill is still on the ways in the house, with little prospect of early action, hence nothing can be done until that is out of the way. The anti-injunction bill, another administrative measure, already has been reported to the house, and a caucus to get that out of the way may and probably will be called before the decks will be free for the postal bank bill.

GOVERNOR SEEING STATE BOULEVARDS

Concord, April 23.—Governor Quinn, state engineer Hill and the other members of the party that have been touring the state the past few days inspecting the state boulevards returned here on Friday, having postponed the remainder of the trip by reason of the bad weather conditions.

On leaving Concord Wednesday the governor and his party followed the route of the Merrimack valley boulevard through Profile Notch to Fabyans. The proposed routes, through Bethlehem and Franconia were also inspected and on the return through Crawford Notch the East Side boulevard was followed as far as Dover. From that city the return here was made by train and the automobiles in which they arrived came overland.

The governor and council and Engineer Hill expect to leave on Monday for a tour of the West side trunk line, inspecting the boulevard work in the Connecticut river valley.

BOATSWAIN PETERSON INJURED

Boatswain's Mate Frank Peterson of this city, for several years stationed on the commandant barge at this navy yard, and recently transferred to the U. S. S. New York, was seriously injured at Hampton Roads a few days ago, where the fleet is engaged in target practice.

A sailor working beside Peterson was killed.

Peterson was directing the work of lowering one of the launches to the deck of the ship. The sailor was close beside him. While the boat was approaching the deck of the davits is said to have parted. Peterson was warned by the snap and avoided being crushed beneath the launch, but was banged upon the chest, shoulders and arms. The launch struck the sail or square upon the head and bore him to the deck, crushing his head and chest.

Letters received by Mrs. Peterson, who resides on Marcy street, gives information that her husband had a narrow escape from instant death, but is now slowly recovering in the hospital.
